

Biography of Kristy Lee

Kristy Lee is Head of Information Systems at the Sojourner Truth Library, State University of New York at New Paltz (SUNY New Paltz). She holds an MSc in Library and Information Studies from Robert Gordon University of Aberdeen, Scotland. She is currently working towards her second master degree in Information Design and Technology at the State University of New York Institute of Technology (SUNYIT).

Kristy serves as the team leader of the library's Computer/Technology Support, the chair of library web design team, and the library liaison to campus IT, Teaching and Learning Center, Instructional Media Services and Academic Computing departments. An active member on campus central committee of education technology, Kristy participates in mobile device exploration projects and pilot programs. She has a strong interest in emerging technology and mobile learning. For the past few years, she presented multiple topics of mobile technology, e-readers & e-books, and mobile library website design/implementation at various statewide library and librarians' conferences. After serving on the SUNY consortial Discovery Search Task Force, Kristy is currently in-charge of the new discovery search implementation and customization at SUNY New Paltz library. In January 2014, with the support of campus marketing/web design specialists, the library web team completed the re-design and launch of the new library website (<http://library.newpaltz.edu>) which features the new discovery search tool.

In her previous positions, Kristy implemented an iPod video streaming and device-lending program in a K-12 school library system comprises of 96 school libraries. She had developed an online video on-demand streaming system, and an iPod digital content library for the servicing school constituents. Other projects included video digitization, student book review video infomercials and digital literacy. Prior to as a school library system librarian, Kristy worked for the legendary reference indexes and databases publisher, the H. W. Wilson Company.

Kristy was born and raised in Hong Kong, educated in the U.K. and lives in New York. Presenting at the m-libraries conference in Hong Kong Chinese University this May, will be completing the 'loop', life in a full circle.